

Join us in Plano for the second segment of the 2013 Advanced Complex Litigation Series!

April 25, 2013

The Advanced Complex Litigation (ACL) series focuses at the trial court level on the advanced skills, which so frequently appear in complex litigation. Whether from the role of the Bench or the Bar, these skills (and the tools around which they are built) are the cornerstones of the judicial system's ability to resolve matters with efficiency and lowest possible cost. The ACL national steering committee benefits from the insights of the country's most experienced judges and practitioners. Together with the Federal Circuit Bar Association, they have developed a series of programs, which will discuss and inform attendees of the circumstances of each respective district. Key topics of this program include:

- Discovery
- Case Management
- Focusing Disputes
- Multiple Party Litigation
